

Research on the Role of College Student Associations in College Ideological and Political Education

Di Wu

Heilongjiang Bayi Agricultural University, Heilongjiang Daqing, 163319 China.

Abstract

College students' associations are an important part of university life. They are loved by college students with their own characteristics as members of the society. College students' associations are helpful for the exchange and communication among students, learn from each other's strengths, establish correct values, and constantly improve their knowledge level and moral cultivation, so as to promote the role of ideological and political education of college students' associations.

Keywords

Associations; Ideology and politics; Education.

1. Introduction

In recent years, the richness and diversity of people's living standards and the pursuit of freedom by college students in colleges and universities have promoted individuality, making college students' associations flourishing like mushrooms. College students play an extremely important role, helping college students improve their comprehensive qualities, gain more knowledge, continuously enrich their horizons, exercise their practical ability, and lay a solid foundation for entering the society in the future.

2. The Status Quo of Ideological and Political Education of College Students' Associations

2.1 The specific content of the role of ideological and political education in college students' associations

"Educating people first, moral education first", this requires colleges and universities to put moral education in the first place in teaching activities. Think of it as an important criterion for ideological and political education.

Give full play to the ideological value-oriented role of the community, encourage everyone to establish correct values, cultivate patriotism, and enable students to fully understand the importance of establishing correct ideas. Then there are correct values guidance. It is conducive to establishing a positive attitude towards life, promoting students' attention to current affairs, increasing their sense of social responsibility, and enhancing the theoretical level and political resolution of college students themselves.

Nowadays, college students are required to not only make great progress in the field of knowledge, but also take into account moral cultivation and possess the ability of social practice. What is more worthy of attention is the cultivation of students' practical ability and innovative ability after entering the society. However, the social organizations just complemented ideological and political education in this field, providing them with a platform to show their strengths. A variety of literary and artistic activities are conducive to their liberation of nature, develop their own personality, and continuously improve their comprehensive Quality.

The credit system established by the university has hindered the progress of ideological and political education to a certain extent. When students are studying theoretical courses, they are often forced out of it, just to complete the credits, and do not deeply understand the ideological and political education. Final goal. However, the establishment and development of college student associations has brought new hope to the full-scale development of ideological and political education. College student associations can use their various advantages to master the students' mental state, combined with real life, which is conducive to ideological and political education. Good play is targeted and time-sensitive, and the various forms of community organization are conducive to the in-depth innovation of ideological and political education.

2.2 Achievements of the achievements of college student associations in the role of ideological and political education

The students have the courage to show their true self in organized activities and can actively participate in it. The college student community is a very important platform for expressing themselves. Each university campus uses the guidance and supervision of social organizations to accurately grasp their mental state and development trend, which is conducive to the school to change the way of working, so as to truly conform to the real situation of college students and conducive to the steady progress of ideological and political work.

The college student association is an informal organization formed by combining students with the same ideals based on the principle that students have the same hobbies and adopt voluntary principles. There is emotional communication within these informal organizations, which has built a platform for university students to communicate and communicate. Many college students with the same ideal interests are advancing towards the same goal in the community, which forms the reason why college students have centripetal force. Through an in-depth understanding of college students, it is found that many college students believe that the inner harmony of the club can feel a strong sense of belonging, and they share the same goals and communicate with other students. This also reflects the cohesion of the community.

Societies can closely link theory and practice, focusing on cultivating all aspects of college students, giving everyone a window to fully express themselves, and at the same time, everyone can understand the true meaning of practice when participating and learn relevant theoretical knowledge independently. During the operation of college student associations, each officer can organize activities in a shorter period of time, continuously improve his ability, and better serve the association. The management staff of the club has just started to work on management. The improvement of the quality of the staff will pay more attention to the communication with the members to master better management skills. With the development of the activity, members of the community can learn a lot of knowledge and skills.

College and university organizations organize various literary and art activities with different themes, and college students receive education from them. This plays an indispensable role in enhancing the sense of social responsibility and mission. The activities organized by the college students' associations are conducive to strengthening students' further understanding of the society, deepening their own communication with the society and the communication between their classmates. Let the students learn more about the society when they are educated, think more deeply about the problem, change the previous superficiality, and strengthen their sense of social responsibility and mission.

2.3 Problems Existing in the Role of Ideological and Political Education in College Students' Associations

Most students are not interested in the literary and artistic activities carried out by the club, which is considered a waste of time. Moreover, many people in the society now have some deviations in the cultural activities organized by the association. Most people think that the activities organized by the college student association are causing disturbance to the society, and they are unwilling to cooperate with the organization of the association.

College student associations often lack the gradual training of officers, and neglect the handover of new and old cadres, and there are great problems with the retention of data in many associations. At the end of the last term, most associations arbitrarily choose individuals to serve as the next president. The new and old presidents are unclear. The new presidents are unclear about the work of the association and lack a sense of responsibility. The members and the president There is no communication between them. There are also some associations that vigorously publicize each new semester when a new student opens an academic title, and no more will be given after the new student has paid the social fee. There are also some associations that started a lot of activities in the early days of the establishment but then disappeared. Due to the above phenomena, the phenomenon of cancellation of associations occurs every semester. The uneven development of college students' associations and the lack of sustainability are very obvious.

Many students feel that the activities organized by the club are too entertaining. When asked "what kind of club do you like", more than half of the college students chose entertainment clubs, social practice clubs accounted for a large proportion, and only a small number of students expressed preference for academic theory Clubs. At present, college students' associations are mainly entertainment-oriented, while the activities organized by college students' associations are more entertaining. Many literary and art activities organized by clubs can only meet the surface needs of members. They only focus on the interests and hobbies of the members. The goal of the club is to make everyone have fun, but it ignores the educational purpose of college students' clubs and lacks effective guidance. At the same time, most associations lack correct value guidance in the ideological and political education of colleges and universities. This attitude that puts too much emphasis on entertainment and despise thoughts has become a common problem among college students.

3. Measures to be taken to give full play to the role of college student organizations in college ideological and political education

However, due to the insufficient development of college student associations, many associations are facing various reasons such as lack of financial support and professional guidance, resulting in the low quality of activities organized by college student associations, imperfect internal management, and some college student association activities. Clearly deviate from the value orientation. Therefore, we must pay attention to the following aspects:

3.1 Strengthen the guidance consciousness, adhere to the correct value orientation

First of all, we should pay attention to the correct guidance of college students' associations, so that the associations can adhere to the correct value orientation, so as to ensure the faster and better development of the associations.

Colleges and universities should pay more attention to college students' associations, and should accurately realize that college students' associations constitute an important part of campus culture. This force cannot be ignored. Schools should intensify their management and make reasonable arrangements for college students' associations. planning. First of all, colleges and universities should establish sound management rules and regulations, make overall planning arrangements, take different measures for different organizations, standardize the cultural and sports activities of the organizations, the number of members, expenditures, etc., and organize them into a set of management processes. Strict requirements during approval. In addition, the school should set up a special institution to strengthen management and guidance to promote the quality and orderly conduct of college student club activities.

So that students can reap happiness in a relaxed atmosphere, at the same time, get a subtle education. However, it should be recognized that the activities of the clubs are not all positive, and there are some vulgar activities, and the direction and content of the activities organized by the college clubs should be correctly grasped. The school should cultivate some excellent associations, reduce vulgar association activities, and strongly support the "nutritional" activities organized by the associations.

The exemplary role of excellent societies in college student associations should be brought into play. Training these excellent societies can serve as a role model and benchmark for other societies in many ways, so that some relatively backward societies can make reference and constantly learn from each other. To enrich itself. Schools can give priority to cultivating some academic and theoretical societies and societies with the nature of social welfare, and guide them so that they can play a leading role and better play the role of ideological and political education.

3.2 Strengthen quality awareness and improve the taste of club activities

Because the management mechanism of associations is inadequate and the consciousness of guidance is insufficient, first of all, the literary and art activities held in colleges and universities should pay attention to the role of ideological and political education, and should strengthen the professional guidance to associations, so as to standardize the development of various organizations. By organizing rich and diverse literary and artistic activities to enhance the level of activities, to achieve the purpose of ideological and political education in a harmonious environment.

However, most of the activities are entertainment-oriented and lack the activities that the club should have. The activities carried out by colleges and universities should focus on promoting the positive attitude of college students, rejecting the adverse effects of the vulgar content of the club on them. The activities should be consistent with the mainstream values of society. With the aim of cultivating students' ideological and political education, students should establish a correct value orientation. The school should strengthen the training of excellent associations, gradually form a unique association brand, and play an exemplary role.

College student associations should carry out high-level activities in accordance with their own characteristics. At the same time, they must not ignore the role of innovation. At any time, they should adhere to the spirit of innovation and innovate step by step in the content and methods of the organization of the organization, keeping pace with the times. It meets the needs of the new era and reflects the direction of advancement of advanced culture, so that the community can develop for a long time.

The activities of clubs need to be innovative. Schools should think about issues in many ways. Activities can not only be held on campus. They can also go out of school and into the society, strengthen connections with the community, and strengthen cooperation between the activities. Development, we must pay attention to social hot issues, organize more exciting activities, constantly improve the level of the community, and adhere to the elegant taste.

3.3 Enhance service awareness and expand the development space for associations

The smooth operation of college students' associations requires a good internal development environment and an external environment. Under a good environment, the associations should enhance their service awareness, effectively integrate into the activities, continuously expand the discovery space of the associations, and enhance the radiation of the ideological and political education of the associations .

When college students organize practical activities, the school should increase their support and provide help in the event that the association organizes literary and artistic activities and lacks space, etc., to create a good external development environment. Strengthen its own influence; use social resources to supplement specific meanings, and ultimately achieve the purpose of serving society. By joining the community, members of the community undertake certain tasks, from publicizing activities, organizing activities, and carrying out activities, all condensing the sweat of the members, constantly training their sense of service, from flowers in the greenhouse to thriving big trees Serve the society better after joining the society. Schools should encourage associations to strengthen close ties with the outside world, strengthen exchanges, display the characteristics of associations, and learn from each other's strengths, so as to develop better and faster.

Associations should establish sound rules and regulations, clarify the responsibilities of the person in charge, restrain bad behavior to a certain extent, reduce the freedom of members, ensure the stability of the association, and at the same time, cultivate high-quality talents for the society. The development of college students' associations is inseparable from the mutual cooperation of the society and the creation of a good development environment. Students are required to step out of the school and integrate into the society, strengthen the further cooperation between the associations and the close contact between the associations. To learn from each other's strengths and strengthen the overall level of the association, mutual communication between the associations also enriches the content of ideological and political education. University students' associations can exercise their abilities when they go out of school and continuously improve their abilities in social practice. A good educational environment can promote the prosperity and development of campus cultural construction.

At present, the number of associations is increasing. The future of ideological and political education on the basis of associations is bright, and the development of associations is flourishing. However, it should be noted that there are still many people who do not participate in the association and are not very enthusiastic about the activities organized by the association and are reluctant to join. In response to this situation, college students' associations should strengthen publicity and management, attract students to understand the association, provide them with suitable associations, and allow students to clarify the purpose, activities, and methods of the association when they join. After college students enter the club, the club should strengthen management. It should not be silent after collecting social fees. It should hold regular activities and social celebrations, listen to the opinions and suggestions of the members, protect the interests of each member, and encounter problems. Resolved in a timely manner, these practices can better expand the radiation of the ideological and political education of the community, so that the community can develop better.

3.4 Strengthen the sense of discipline and perfect the building of the association

Based on the characteristics such as the mobility and spontaneity of the association itself, perfect institutional norms and disciplinary constraints, as well as the construction of the association itself, can well guarantee the healthy development of college student associations.

The development of college student associations is inseparable from a complete management system. The establishment of a perfect association management system allows associations to develop in the direction of science. Facts have proved that the lack of rules and regulations will gradually deviate from the original intention of the association development and even negative influence. Therefore, the establishment of the association should be approved by the relevant departments and abide by the code of conduct. Activities held in associations should be within the legal provisions, keeping up with the purpose of nurturing students, so as to ensure that the content of the activities is active and healthy, promote the healthy development of college students, and do a good job of ideological and political education for the leaders of college students associations. To meet certain requirements, they should have a wealth of knowledge, a unique charm, certain influence, and a sense of responsibility, be able to do a good job in the community, correctly handle the relationship between learning and work, and play a leading role.

Many cadres in the club lack responsibility, and ignore the affairs of the club, let alone do their best. Therefore, the college student club should focus on cultivating backbone members and let the truly competent and responsible people lead the club. Cultivate a batch of reserve cadres. When it is found that some cadres deviate from the purpose of the association and do not have sufficient capabilities, they should be replaced in time. The cadres of the association should be responsible to the members, do the affairs of the association well, and regularly train the leading members of the association to enhance their comprehensive quality and service awareness. Colleges and universities should give spiritual encouragement and some material encouragement to prominent community backbones, so as to encourage them to continue to cheer and better serve the community.

The successive joining of members of the club is based on the relaxed and harmonious atmosphere of the club. Students need a place to release themselves, make friends, and be happy. The members of the club have different personalities. If you want to make the club have centripetal force, you should organize internal activities on time, so that the students can deepen their exchanges and increase their mutual feelings. To deepen the understanding of work, for the students who have difficulties, you can help each other, continue to unite the inside of the club, which helps the community activities to develop better. Under the atmosphere of unity and friendship, students can develop a healthy and positive attitude.

4. Conclusion

College students' associations show a trend of changing from literature and art to theory and practice. Due to the reform of China's college education system and the year-by-year expansion of college enrollment, the requirements for college students' organizations have also become increasingly diversified to meet the spiritual needs of college students. Moreover, with the development of the society, college students' associations have greatly developed in terms of number and quality. A variety of club activities are part of the campus culture, and also students show their advantages, cultivate interests and hobbies and deepen their own society Communication and social practice ability, one of the main ways to make your spare time colorful, and play an important role in the ideological and political education system.

References

- [1] Chen Wanbai. On the characteristics and functions of the carrier of ideological and political education management [J]. Journal of South-Central University for Nationalities (Humanities and Social Sciences Edition), 2015, 25 (4): 177 ~ 180.
- [2] Xu Rui. On the organizational structure design of college student associations [J]. Higher Education Exploration, 2015 (2) 54 ~ 57.
- [3] Xiao Diming. Analysis of the current situation, problems and countermeasures of college student associations [J]. Hubei Social Sciences, 2014 (5): 139 ~ 141.